
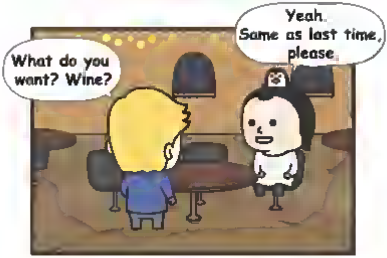
So
we pushed the wine into our throats
and left the bar.

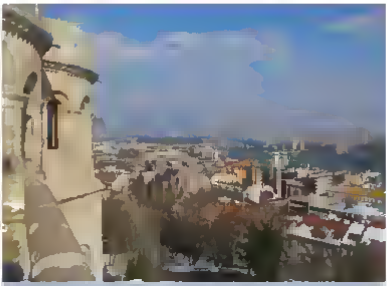
At that moment,..

Mev came back to his seat with drinks and we were all feeling very awkward in that embarrassing situation.

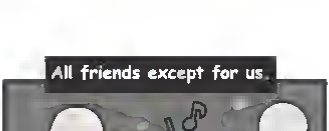


After we donced very hord once,
Mev went to the bar to order
our second drinks.

While Mev was away,
o Hungarion man came to me
ond storted to tolk to me.



We had no idea what Budapest would be like but the buildings on the street were amazing and food was very delicious.



So we were two foreigners who just went into a party and had fun...

However, that wasn't the true embarrassing moment.

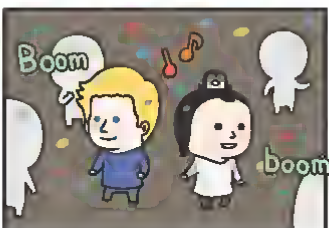
We saw that many tourist guides said that the night life in Budapest was very famous.

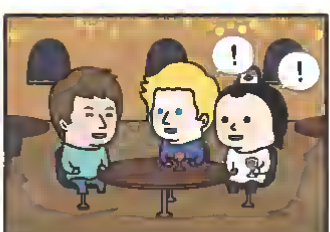
So one night, we went to a street that had many bars.

I was surprised by him.

He continued to the conversation in English this time.



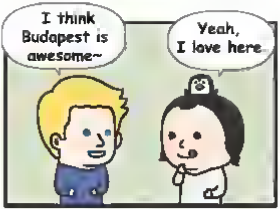
We liked the place so we decided to stay at one bar which was quite small but had a DJ and a dance floor.



The party was a private party for someone's birthday.

In Budapest.

Mev and I went for a short trip to Budapest for 3 nights and 4 days last week without much planning.



So both of us were fascinated by Budapest.
